- Bait-and-switch: This is when a dealer advertises a car at a low price to get you in the door, but then tells you the car is sold or no longer available. They'll then try to sell you a more expensive car.

- Lying about the condition of a car: This is when a dealer tells you a car is in good condition when it's actually not. They may hide damage or problems with the car so they can sell it for a higher price.
- Pressuring you to buy: This is when a dealer tries to pressure you into buying a car that you don't want or can't afford. They may use aggressive sales tactics or make you feel uncomfortable until you give in.
- Charging hidden fees: This is when a dealer adds fees to the price of a car that you were not expecting. These fees can include things like documentation fees, dealer preparation fees, and advertising fees.
- Refusing to negotiate: This is when a dealer refuses to negotiate on the price of a car. They may tell you that the price is firm or that they're not willing to come down.

If you encounter a crazyshitcardealer, there are a few things you can do to deal with them:

- Be prepared: Do your research before you go to a dealership. This will help you spot the crazies and avoid getting taken advantage of.
- Don't be afraid to walk away: If you're not comfortable with a dealer, don't be afraid to walk away. There are plenty of other dealerships out there.
- Get everything in writing: Before you sign anything, make sure you get everything in writing. This will protect you from being taken advantage of.

- Report them to the BBB: If you have a bad experience with a dealer, you can report them to the Better Business Bureau. This will help other consumers avoid being taken advantage of.

Finding a perfect dealership can be a challenge, but it's worth it. A good dealership will make the car buying process easy and enjoyable. Here are a few tips on how to find a perfect dealership:

- Ask for recommendations: Talk to your friends, family, and colleagues to see if they have any recommendations for dealerships.
- Read online reviews: Read online reviews of dealerships to see what other consumers have said about their experiences.
- Visit the dealership in person: Before you buy a car, visit the dealership in person to get a feel for the place. Talk to the salespeople and see if they're friendly and helpful.
- Get a written estimate: Before you buy a car, get a written estimate from the dealership. This will help you compare prices and avoid being taken advantage of.

Buying a car can be a stressful experience, but it doesn't have to be. By following the tips in this article, you can avoid the crazyshitcardealersdo and find a perfect dealership where you can get a great deal on a new or used car.
